All,

Walked the entire property with the owner and below is what he called as the correct stack positions.

I have listed the current unit numbers, the numbers in () are what we used on the measure trip and the current stack position.

(good) notes everything is ok as is, (currently) is what the stack position is and the new stack position stated after currently.

Additionally the owner is also interested in the possibility of universal stacks. Masters and batons on each end, no returns
